However, it is hoped that by the time the showing of Hancock County is scheduled, the weather will have moderated and the gardens begin blooming.

Mrs. Charles Beyer is chairman of the Pilgrimage for the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, and has an exciting and interesting tour planned. One of the special features of interest will add humor to the day of beauty, is the 1890 style show which will take place at Hotel Reed following lunch-

Reservations for the luncheon should be made at an early date by calling Mrs. Beyer.

Another feature of interest will be the charming candlelight tea being planned by Mrs. Ruth Luderbach at her St. Charles Street home. The home, which is included in the tour, has been renovated, redesigned and decorated by Mrs. Luderbach, and is one of the delightful examples of what can be done with artistic good taste to an old type coast frame home

LOCAL C A P SEARCHES FOR MISSING FLYER

The Bay St. Louis squadron, Civil Air Patrol under the command of 1st Lt. M G. (Jack Seuzeneau participated last Saturday and Sunday in an extensive air search for a Navy pilot missing from the Pensacola Naval Air Station since last Friday.

The plane was on a training flight out of Whiting Air Force Base, Pensacola, last heard from near Pascagoula at 12:47 p. m., Friday. The plane was due to return to Pensacola.

Coast CAP units combed the area from Wiggins to the Alabama line and south to the Gulf of Mexico without locating the missing plane.

Search headquarters were set up Saturday at the Jackson County Airport in Pascagoula and the CAP flew missions until dark. At 7 a. m. Sunday the search was esumed and at noon search headquarters were moved to Laurel where the search continued. Lt. Gertrude Perkins reported that approximately 3600 square miles of territory were covered in the search before dark on Sunday. She remarked "This mission reflected the true dedication of CAP members to search and res- a native of Hancock County, died cue, the basic principal upon which the organization was found-

BEEF PRODUCTION SHOWS FAST GROWTH

The cattle business, was clearly, the brightest spot in our entire farm economy this past year. Mississippi ranks ninth in the nation as a beef cattle state. Few segments of Mississippi's farm economy have shown a health growth to compare with that of beef cattle production. Farmers breaking away from a one-crop cotton economy find that beef cattle have many advantages. Labor requirements are not so great as for any field crop. The weather can't wipe you out overnightalthough it can hurt you over a period of weeks. But cattle are good security and many a producer will find ready credit so he can hang on for better days.

In the film, Montgomery Clift's appointed with a Brussell's ing Civil War days in Indiana afsearch for the fabulous tree durfects the course of his romances with Elizabeth Taylor and Eva Where did the legend originate?

Some claim that Robert Owen, who founded the first farming cooperative movement in New Harmony, Indiana, is the original teller of the tale. According to stories credited to Owen. Johnny Appleseed was none other than a ragged preacher named John Chapman who traveled across America planting apple seeds wherever he went.

Among the seeds was the Raintree. Johnny planted the Golden Raintree somewhere in Indiana, so the story goes, and Ross Lockridge agreed when he wrote "Raintree County.'

This is the Legend of the Raintree: "The Legend of the Raintree is the age old tale of man's quest for the unatainable. In every time and in every language, poets have sung of it. . . the pri mal tree in the Garden of Eden the tree of Apollo bearing jeweled apples in the Hesperides . . th Golden Raintree of the Orient transplanted to the heart of frontier America, the tree whose fruit is love, whose flower is fulfillment. It is the very treeof life to him who finds it. Its ways are ways of pleasantness and its
